The smallest star petrol station in Germany

First star petrol station on a scale of 1:87 opens in the Miniatur Wunderland Hamburg

Hamburg, 28 January 2015 – Following the opening of the authentic model star petrol station on 27 January, visitors of all ages will be able to admire legendary cars from classic films in miniature format at the world's largest model railway exhibition and also have the chance to win 50 fuel vouchers valued at a total of 2,500 euros.

There are more than 20 of the family-friendly star petrol stations in the Hamburg area alone and more than 550 throughout Germany. The miniature star petrol station in the Miniatur Wunderland is based on one of the most modern new buildings: The original petrol station in Hamburg's Kollaustraße. Like its larger counterpart, the petrol station is built around a tree; the original is protected. And just like the full-scale version, the diminutive petrol station is equipped with the latest LED technology.

On the grounds of the model star petrol station in the highlands of the Miniatur Wunderland, fans of the exhibition large and small can admire special cars like the Verva Racing Team's racing Porsche or the van of a famous "team" from a legendary TV series. The petrol station also depicts scene from everyday life.

Find Oscar – the big prize draw for the opening

To mark the opening of the first model star petrol station, three miniature "Oscars" have hidden somewhere in the Miniatur Wunderland. Oscar, the little red racer, is the likable brand ambassador of the star petrol stations. Anyone who finds the three Oscars in the Miniatur Wunderland by 28 February could win one of 50 fuel vouchers worth a total of 2,500 euros. Each fuel voucher is worth € 50.

The exact conditions of entry can be found in the available prize draw flyers.
